

REIT Expert Explains the Benefits of Joining REITbuyer.com to Invest in Real Estate Stock

The REITBuyer.com provides a wealth of professional resources for members of their online investment community

Detroit, MI – REIT expert, Earl E. Bird, III was recently interviewed by a group of real estate investors who wanted to learn more about the online brokerage, the REITBuyer.com. The website was officially launched in February of 2009; it is now fully operational; beta testing is complete.

One investor said, “I’ve heard about online trading sites; what are the benefits of joining the REITbuyer.com?” Earl said, “The site is a great resource for all levels of real estate investors, from newbies to savvy. We have created an online ‘Assessment Wizard’ to help investors make wise investment choices based on their individual profile. The wizard suggests an account type, individual, joint or custodial and an allocation of real estate investments suitable for their specific needs. In addition, members can contact our licensed financial advisors by phone, fax or email to get personalized answers to questions about money and investing.”

Earl described the educational tools including articles about real estate investments, a savings calculator to help investors reach their financial goals, and easy to understand Q & A about REITs and Real Estate Mutual Funds, and an extensive glossary of financial terms, recommended reading, webinars, helpful links and other resources.

Earl pulled up the website to show everyone how easy it is to sign up and all the information that is available on the site. “We promoted the site before it was fully operational because it contained a wealth of information to educate investors. In addition to all the benefits that I’ve already mentioned, we also provide a monthly newsletter geared for real estate investors and we offer the opportunity to participate in seminars and other local educational events conducted by our advisors and money managers.”

Real estate investors can learn about REITs at the REITBuyer.com. REITbuyer.com is an online brokerage information site specializing In REITs and Real Estate Mutual Funds – The World’s first and only site dedicated to REITs Real Estate Mutual Funds. This is a place for the small investor to own a piece of world class real estate.
